DiSalle Asks Liquor Dept. Investigation

Wants Reports of Alleged Influence Peddling Probed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy told Gov. Michael V. DiSalle today he will make a "direct, prompt and forthright" investigation of alleged influence peddling in connection with Ohio's liquor monopoly system.

McElroy added he will impanel a special grand jury if DiSalle orders it.

In response to a written request by the governor for guidance, McElroy replied:

"Let me assure you that this matter will be given maximum attention by my staff and me."

McElroy said he and his staff will start accumulation of statements from principals immediately and probably will confer with DiSalle early next week.

DiSalle sought McElroy's advice within a matter of hours after allegations were made public that influence was offered and paid for in the listing of whisky brands in state stores.

The allegations were in a letter to Liquor Director George R. Dick from Joseph H. Makler, president of the Waterfill & Frazier Distillery Co. of Chicago.

Makler said he was forced to do business in early 1959 with three men in a Columbus hotel room. He named them as George Flanagan of Dayton, Montgomery County Democratic organization figure and former treasurer of the state party, James Carroll and Gilbert Bilenkin.

Makler said Carroll and Bilenkin were supposedly the heads of two phantom companies and he was asked to, and did, make payments to these companies in return for getting Waterfill & Frazier whisky listed in Ohio's stores.

Makler further asserted that Richard C. Crouch of Dayton, then liquor director, joined him and the others in the hotel room after the deal was completed.

In requesting the attorney general to make the investigation, DiSalle said, "Although the published reports do not specify or involve any member of the administration, I am concerned that the State of Ohio operate not only according to the letter of the law but according to its spirit.

"Consequently, I would like your advice as to whether or not there has been any violation of law or conflict of interest. I would also like your advice as to the legality of the possibility of impaneling a special grand jury in order to summon anyone who has any information of wrongdoing, implied or in fact."

The governor also asked for a legal opinion as to the calling of news reporters, who have confidential immunity under law, for the purpose of testifying before a

Church Dedication Set Here Saturday

Elder W. E. Murray, a vice president of the Adventist Church General Conference from the Washington, D.C., headquarters will deliver the sermon at ceremonies dedicating the building of the Salem Seventh-Day Adventist Church free of debt Saturday at 2 p.m.

Elder D. W. Hunter, president of the Ohio Conference, will assist the pastor of the local church, L. G. Euler, in the act of dedication. Mrs. Carl Bowman will direct the choir in presenting special music, with Mrs. Perry Rigby, pianist. Mayor Dean Cranmer will speak.

The district-wide all day program will begin at 9:15 a.m. Saturday with Sabbath School. Conference president, D. W. Hunter, will speak at the 11 a.m. worship service.

Representatives from churches in East Liverpool and Steubenville will join the congregation of the local church at the worship service and dedication ceremonies to follow, along with former pastors who served the Salem church, R. F. Farley of Mount Vernon; E. H. Roy of Coudersport, Pa.; E. J. Zager of Cadillac, Mich. and E. J. Wheeler of Roanoke, Va.

Tonight Elder Murray will speak of the world mission work of the church at 7:45 and will show pictures taken on his recent around-the-globe tour of mission stations.

City Still Awaits Final Approval

Officials Review Plans for Overpass

The city must adopt a "wait and see" policy on final approval of the $1,300,000 W. State St. overpass, it was apparent after a meeting Thursday afternoon at City Hall among city, state and federal officials.

Although no major changes were proposed in the structural design of the project, some alterations were suggested to the original plans drawn up by Rackoff Engineers of Columbus.

It is expected that final plans will be forthcoming from Columbus before the end of October, but none of the officials present was able to stipulate the exact date when the project will be approved.

However, the target date of Dec. 15 for awarding of the contract probably will be met, the group agreed.

At yesterday's meeting, the plans were reviewed to "smooth out the rough edges." According to City Engineer, F. S. Barckhoff, "The changes were of a general and minor nature."

"The proposed revisions will be taken back to Columbus and incorporated into the final plans," said Robert Jenkins, planning and design engineer of Division 11, Ohio Highway Department. "I have no idea when approval will be given to the final plans."

A public hearing on the overpass project will be held in City Hall Council chambers Oct. 19 at 2 p.m., Jenkins said.

The two-lane overpass has been in the mill since 1959. The proposed route will begin 50 feet east of Sharp Ave. extend approximately 1,500 feet, going over the Pennsylvania railroad tracks and coming to an end 40 feet east of Jennings Ave.

The horizontal bridge will be of re-enforced concrete and steel, with concrete piers, wall decks and steel girders.

"There will be no removal of buildings in the area," Barckhoff said. "The overpass will be within our own 60-foot right-of-way, which is the base edge of the sidewalk to the base edge of the other side of the street."

However, Mayor Dean B. Cranmer said damages will be paid to owners of business establishments in the area whose businesses will be adversely affected by the construction of the overpass.

Mayor Dean Cranmer has stated that the city's share of the approximately $1,300,000 overpass will be five per cent, or about $65,000.

The money has already been appropriated from the city income tax general fund through a resolution passed by Council authorizing the city to use all funds in excess of $150,000 received this year in income tax money.

"If the contract is awarded in December as planned, construction work will begin immediately," Jenkins said.

Attending the meeting were R. E. Aensdorf, Bureau of Public Roads; R. D. Marshall, Al Kopec, John McClellin, J. G. Maize and Jennings of Division 11 of the Ohio Highway Department; F. J. Richard, Ohio Highway Department; Richard Zandi and Roger Willis, Rackoff Engineers; James Feiler, service director; Aubrey Hayes, utilities superintendent; Barckhoff and Mayor Cranmer.

Yemen Prince Assumes Throne

Takes Over After Rebels Kill Monarch

ADEN (AP)—Yemen's princely delegate to the U.N. headed home in the face of death threats today to claim the family throne after rebels announced they had killed the newly installed monarch and proclaimed a republic.

The delegate, Prince Hassan, acted as broadcasts from Yemen's capital of Sana said military rebels destroyed the royal Palace with artillery Wednesday night, burying beneath debris his nephew, the new imam, Mohammad al Badr, 35.

Hassan declared, as he boarded a plane in New York Thursday night, that he was returning to the little Arab kingdom as the legitimate chief of state and rightful heir to its ancient feudal throne.

Hassan's announcement brought a quick warning from a member of the so-called Free Yemeni Movement in Cairo that if the prince set foot on Yemen's soil, he would be killed. The insurgent movement has operated on Egyptian soil with the apparent blessings of President Nasser.

One Arab source said the new ruler may have been forced out, then killed in a coup engineered by friends of Nasser's United Arab Republic. Many Yemeni officers are known to have been Nasser sympathizers.

Trumpeting claims that the rebels controlled the country, a late night broadcast from Sana said, "The revolutionary command ordered army units to besiege the palace of the tyrant shortly before 5 o'clock on the night of Sept. 26.

"Tanks and armored cars moved in and threw a siege around the royal palace, but the tyrant resisted. When the time of the ultimatum expired army artillery began shelling Bashayar palace until it became rubble.

"All army units carried out their commands and orders throughout the country and had the situation under control while the tyrant was buried under debris in the capital. Men of the ousted regime were arrested and a republic proclaimed."

The announcement came after members of the royal family fled and sought refuge in Aden.

Senate OK's Postal Rate, Pay Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill that would increase both postal rates and the pay of federal employees has won Senate approval by an overwhelming 72-3 vote.

If enacted, it would mean a penny hike in postage for regular and air mail letters and a wage boost averaging about 10 per cent for 1.6 million government workers.

The next step is up to the House. If it takes the Senate measure as is, the bill goes to President Kennedy for signing into law. If the House balks, a joint conference would have to work out a compromise.

The House last January passed a bill designed to bring in $690 million a year more in postal revenue. But this measure does not provide for an increase for postal and other government workers.

Job, Education Problems Top Political Issues, DiSalle Says

Governor Blasts Actions by GOP Legislature

Gov. Michael V. DiSalle stressed unemployment and higher education as principal issues in the Nov. 6 election in a major political talk here Thursday night.

Speaking before an estimated 500 persons at a dinner at St. Paul's School auditorium, Gov. DiSalle declared lack of education in the 18-24 year age bracket was the primary reason for unemployment in the state.

He cited the actions of Republicans in the current legislature who approved an education bill which saved the taxpayers an insignificant amount of money but increased students' tuition.

This, he said, helped to limit education to the wealthier student. The governor also declared universities were finding it increasingly difficult to pay the salary demands of teachers and as a result were losing them to California and other states with higher pay rates.

"I think the teaching profession is underrated," he said. "The teachers understandably are averse to teaching under their salary scale of $8,000 a year and training students to earn between $15,000 and $20,000."

"No financial gimmick or industrial lure is going to solve our unemployment problem," DiSalle asserted. "We are going to have work on it day in and day out, year in and year out. We can help in some instances with the retraining of workers and with special programs designed to assist the economic distressed areas which are undergoing deep and revolutionary changes."

"But it will be the American free enterprise system and the dedicated effort of all of us who make up the country's economic system who will in the end get Ohio and the nation on the move at a growth rate necessary to pick up the job slack, not quick and artificial gimmicks or lures."

The governor said many communities are hurting themselves because they refuse to give industry necessary utilities or pass legislation to make the community attractive to industry.

"Industry locating in a community increases the tax duplicate and makes employment available to local residents. In 1959 I was desirous of creating an industrial division to aid communities in their quest for industry, but the legislative body voted against it," he said.

Police Capture Another, Third Flees

Thief Wounded In Alliance Burglary

ALLIANCE, Ohio (AP) — One frustrated burglar was shot, another captured and a third escaped after they were thwarted in their attempt to get into a jewelry store Thursday night.

Police said two of them are from Niles and the one who outdistanced his pursuers also is thought to be from Niles.

Under police guard in Alliance City Hospital is a man identified as Herbert M. Adkins, 29, who suffered shotgun wounds of the back.

An accomplice, John J. Tomlin, 22, was treated for a minor injury and then lodged in city jail. Police Capt. A. M. Barnhouse said both have been charged with attempted breaking and entering.

He gave this account: The policemen sped to the city's southwest section shortly before midnight. A telephone caller said three men were atop the building.

When police arrived at the scene, the three jumped to the ground and started to run. Patrolman Homer Emmons, armed with a shotgun, fired after they failed to heed his warning to halt.

The blast felled Adkins. Capt. Barnhouse found Tomlin in a nearby garage well into which Tomlin had fallen. The third man fled on foot.

Police seized a car thought used by the men and found a sledge hammer, crow bar and an axe atop the roof.

Foreign Aid Funds Restored

Senate Group Acts On President's Plea

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee has responded to a plea by President Kennedy and restored to the foreign aid money bill much of the funds cut by the House.

Tacked back onto the bill was $792,400,000 of the $1,124,400,000 House reduction.

Making the day doubly sweet for the administration, the committee loosened shackles placed by the House on the way some of the aid funds may be spent.

The appropriations measure now goes to the Senate floor carrying $4,422,800,000 for foreign aid. There, says Assistant Democratic Leader Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, administration forces face the "fight of our lives" to beat back aid slashers.

Kennedy originally asked for $4,961,300,000 in foreign aid. A bill setting ceilings for military and economic spending abroad this year cut the request to $4,754,800,000. Then the House this month voted its big cut.

Even if the amount voted by the committee is approved by the full Senate, the appropriations fi-

Government Calls Off 4th Attempt To Enroll Meredith

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—A detachment of Army Engineers reached Memphis, Tenn., today to give administrative and logistic support to a force of federal marshals gathering to enforce court orders for enrollment of a Negro at the University of Mississippi.

Army and Justice Department spokesmen said the 110-man Engineer unit would provide supplies, meals, administrative services and possibly arrange living quarters for the marshals.

An Army spokesman emphasized that the Engineers will have absolutely nothing to do with affairs in Mississippi. They will remain at Memphis, 50 miles north of this college town.

The Engineers — first federal troops to be ordered to any kind of duty in connection with the defiance of court orders by Mississippi's top officials—arrived at the Memphis Naval Air Station at 3 a.m. after a 200-mile overnight trip from Ft. Campbell, Ky.

Their 49-truck convoy included tractor-trailers carrying heavy equipment, tractor-drawn vans, jeeps and other vehicles.

"They have with them the capacity to set up a tent city to furnish bedding, cooking and that type of service for the marshals," said Lt. Col. T. A. Price, deputy commander of operations at Ft. Campbell.

Price said the members of the 70th Engineer Battalion, were armed because their maneuver was a mobility exercise.

Further moves in the showdown between federal and state authorities over attempts to enroll Negro James H. Meredith at the university were expected momentarily today.

Thursday the Justice Department called off a fourth attempt to get Meredith admitted. Both sides said the action probably averted violence and bloodshed.

Then the government began enlarging its force of marshals for further action, with Washington announcing that several hundred from around the nation were being sent to Memphis and that the Army Engineers also were being dispatched there.

Use of federal troops to override state authorities would require a proclamation from President Kennedy.

On another front in the tense struggle between state and federal governments, a federal appeals court contempt hearing for Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett, 64, was scheduled today in New Orleans.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy dramatically halted Meredith's fourth attempt to become the first Negro knowingly admitted to the university, saying he feared "major violence and bloodshed for the citizens of Mississippi" would result if U.S. marshals and Meredith appeared on the campus.

Lt. Gov. Paul B. Johnson of Mississippi agreed. An Atlanta television station, WSB-TV, quoted Johnson as saying in an interview Thursday night that "if the state troopers hadn't been at Ole Miss that Negro wouldn't have lasted as long as it takes to aim a shotgun."

Johnson estimated a crowd of 5,000 to 8,000 were gathered at the university in anticipation of another appearance by Meredith and told WSB-TV: "You couldn't have turned them back with a regiment of men. A lot of lives were saved by their (federal

TV Doctors Had Very Busy Night

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—It sure was a busy night in television's obstetrical wards.

"Dr. Kildare," starting his new season on NBC, was having his troubles with a patient soon to experience motherhood. Two nurses, a couple of channels away on CBS were handling everything from births and deaths to emotional problems with only occasional assistance from the doctors.

I stayed with "The Nurses," a new series quite obviously inspired by the successful doctor stories. The opening show concentrated on hectic events during one busy night in the maternity ward manned primarily by wise, kindly head nurse Thorpe, and idealistic, dedicated student nurse Lucas (Shirl Conway and Zina Bethune).

It will be an interesting series—if you aren't getting a little weary of stethoscopes, operating room scenes, intimate clinical descriptions, medical jargon and all that jazz.

And speaking of jazz, Andy Williams also turned up Thursday night with a smooth, sleek a delightfully melodic variety hour on NBC. Andy sings well, has an easy, low pressure style and had lots of help from Peggy Lee and George Gobel. This looks like a winner.

Hearing Held At Courthouse In Lisbon

Unity Twp. Area Annexation Bid Is Studied by County

Columbiana County commissioners Thursday afternoon took under consideration the proposed annexation of approximately one square mile of Unity Township to East Palestine.

Following a public hearing at the Courthouse in Lisbon, the commissioners said they would announce their decision Monday or Tuesday.

Galen Greenisen, president of the board of commissioners, presided. Atty. D. Barry Dickson of East Palestine represented the petitioners, and Mayor Robert Harding of East Palestine sat in as a representative of the city.

Atty. Dickson said the petitions contained signatures of 134 of the 220 adults living in the affected territory. He advised the commissioners he had complied with all the legal requirements. He also declared that there was no organized or individual opposition to the annexation.

H. M. Hill of East Palestine RD 1, the only other person at the hearing, said he owned land in the area, but not a resident. He asked Atty. Dickson, "Is it true that even if I own land in that area, but do not live there, I have no vote?"

"Under the code if you owned all the land except just one lot and this owner who was living on this lot, requested to annex your land and his to East Palestine, you would still have no vote," Atty. Dickson said.

Hill then discussed the construction of a new road in the area, declaring he had been promised this road by former commissioners. Greenisen asked if any commissioners on the present board made the promise, and he answered no.

Robert J. Wilson Jr., 19, Salineville and William A. Thigpen, 45, Warren each forfeited $15 bonds after being cited by the state highway patrol.

Greenisen then closed the hearing.

Unity Township residents seek annexation by East Palestine to take advantage of the city's sanitary sewage system. Because of a sewage problem in the area, created by seepage from septic tanks, the residents have been ordered by county and state authorities either to connect with the East Palestine system or build their own facilities.

Congress Not Too Anxious To Reveal Units Spending

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress, which criticizes executive agencies for withholding information from the public, often is much less than frank about its own activities.

This is particularly true of official travel, or junketing or other expenses of the members.

The practice is more prevalent in the Senate than in the House. It is almost impossible to find out how much money a senator spends. Unlike the Senate, the House makes available at all times the staff payrolls of its members, including the names of individuals and their salaries.

The House also publishes annually a statement of foreign travel spending by its members and committees, but the document lacks details and is long outdated when made available.

Executive agencies sometimes invoke "executive privilege" in withholding information, a practice criticized by a special House committee on government information. President Kennedy has taken the position that this privilege may be invoked by agencies only if he authorizes it. Although Congress has erected few, if any, direct roadblocks in the path of the public's right to know what's going on the problem is one of getting access to congressional documents. They are a matter of record somewhere.

Frustrations, difficulties and delays often plague newsmen trying to find out what's going on in the way of congressional junketing or the expenditure of public funds. The information may no longer be news when finally obtained.

For example, the law requires an annual accounting by all congressional committees and legislators on expenses incurred while traveling on official business, either inside or outside the United States.

But the accounting does not have to be made and published until after the first 60 days of each calendar year. But that time the information can be a year old.

Even then it seldom is complete. Spending is listed under general headings—travel, lodging, meals and miscellaneous. Supporting vouchers explaining the details are not available.

THE BEAR FACTS — It looks as if this frazzled polar bear at the Detroit Zoo simply keeled over on his nose from the heat. But the lying-down-while-standing-up position is just his way of taking a snooze after partaking of his favorite dinner—raw fish.

Historic Lesson For Aggressors

In World War II, before that in World War I and before that in the War of the Revolution and the Spanish-American War it was widely assumed in the Old World that the New World lacked the will to fight.

The fighting potential was plain; the strength was there. But in the absence of a belligerent official attitude, even the belligerence that flared briefly in the brief action that shattered Spanish militarism at the turn of the century, the assumption was made by European sword rattlers that the potential could not materialize for lack of determination. The assumption was fatally wrong.

This is the background for Secretary of State Rusk's current activities in the United Nations, for Ambassador Stevenson's strong statements to Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko, for everything being said officially in behalf of the United States at a time when the threat of aggressive military action again is rumbling in the background of international relations. "Don't tread on us!"

There is a historic lesson for aggressors to be learned—the lesson that the sovereign power of the United States lies within the people themselves. It is not in the hands of their elected leaders. They act only as its trustees.

Foreign leaders, unaccustomed to this concealed popular force, mistakenly have thought they were dealing with officials of varying degrees of strength, instead of with the composite mass of the American people. They have calculated the chances of war in terms of personalities, instead of in terms of the American population.

It will not be what any one man, one clique, or one government does that they must reckon with in a showdown. It will be what the American people as a whole will decide to do that will determine the outcome of their sword-rattling.

Governments can be changed here a predetermined intervals. Public opinion can change the opinions of governments overnight.

Is the Old World sizing up the New World and the United States with a view to conquest? Is that the meaning of the Russian military buildup in Cuba?

Are Old World leaders making the mistake of thinking they are dealing with personalities instead of with the sovereign will of the American people?

Is lack of official belligerence being mistaken for a lack of deep-growing popular concern about the intentions of Old World aggressors, backed up by deep-growing determination to keep them from getting a foothold here?

Canada Has Problems Too

Canada's problems multiply. As the House of Commons elected last June meets in Ottawa, Canada has a prime minister without power, a minority government, a deficit economy, an unfavorable balance of payments, chronic unemployment, and a potential threat to the bulk of its exports in the European Common Market.

Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker's Progressive Conservative Party lost more than 90 seats in the Parliamentary election, retaining only 116 in the 264-member House. The Liberals gained 49 for a total of 100, Social Credit gained 30, all new to them, and the New Democratic Party gained 11 for a total of 19.

Diefenbaker's proposed acceleration of austerity can succeed only on the sufferance of one of the other minority parties. The Social Credit party, whose election success stunned even its most optimistic members holds the balance of power.

The Diefenbaker government in June announced tariff surcharges on half of Canada's imports and had received credits of up to $1.1 billion from the International Monetary Fund and U.S. and British agencies. The allowance of $400 of duty-free goods purchased abroad by Canadian tourists was cut to $75 a year, and Diefenbaker promised reduction of $250 million in government spending.

All this was an attempt to reduce to $200 million the $745 million budget deficit which had been anticipated in April. Toward the same end the government had pegged the Canadian dollar at 92½¢ U.S.

The government will not announce its new tax plans until Budget Night, shortly after the opening of Parliament on Sept. 27. Among measures expected are a 5 per cent surcharge on corporate and individual income taxes. Also extension of the 11 per cent sales tax on a wide range of services such as telephones, utilities, transportation, and dry cleaners and laundries. Tobacco and alcohol are expected to bear heavier levies.

Will the opposition go long? A vote of no-confidence would tumble the Diefenbaker regime.

U.S. and Canadian economies are so intertwined that the desirability of a prosperous Canadian economy should be obvious. To wipe out its deficits, Canada must spend less abroad than it sells. This is the meaning of "austerity."

Survival Is Not Contempt

A 10-5 turnaround by the Senate Judiciary Committee disposes of the recommendation by an antitrust and monopoly subcommittee for contempt citations against Republic Steel and three other companies.

It disposes of two other things too.

One is Sen. Kefauver's one-man effort to make major steel companies submit confidential information on their production costs. It now seems likely that neither the four companies which risked a contempt citation by refusing to provide the information nor the companies which stood ready to provide it, though unwilling, will be harassed further by the Kefauver tactics.

The other thing disposed of is the government credo that became current after the steel industry's abortive effort to raise prices last spring — that business survival constitutes contempt for government authority.

When the Kennedy administration delivered its now-historic crackdown on the industry, it left the impression that it had acted against public policy and public welfare by seeking upward price adjustments.

It further left the impression that the full authority of government would be reared against the industry, if necessary. This impression later was to be modified by conciliatory statements from Kennedy administration spokesmen, but damage had been done.

The Kefauver subcommittee's move looked like a tail-end action by a hostile group, not like an administration policy. And now the hostility of the Kefauver group has been nullified by a 10-5 vote of the major committee.

The war isn't over, but business-baiting has lost a battle.

Trying to survive in business is not contempt of the Kennedy administration, the Congress of the United States, or the American people.

Who's a Student?

By Truman Twill

Vivian Brown of Associated Press News-features wrote an interview with two students from the Old World the other day. They thought young people here are not as old as their years.

More harshly stated, American students are immature in the opinion of these two students from abroad—a young man from Turkey who is a graduate of Oberlin College in this country, and a young man from France.

Instead of rejecting this charge or putting up an argument about it, why not accept it with gratitude. There is much in it to be grateful for.

American students stay on the balmy side of maturity longer than their counterparts in other parts of the world because most of them have had the privilege of enchantment about the world they live in. They can afford to be children.

They have been allowed to believe the world is a soft, cuddly place lined with fuzz and silk, air-conditioned, watched over by faithful protectors and requiring nothing more of its inhabitants than inclination to breathe in and out while eating goodies to keep up their strength.

It is no whim that causes football coaches to look for boys who had to claw their way to survival—no mere accident that caused veterans of World War II to burn up the academic course when, their lives spared, they had a chance to go to college and get an education.

A family goes from shirt-sleeves to shirt-sleeves in three generations. Allowing for exceptions, many families are able to louse it up in two generations because of the myth they owe their kids an easy time of it.

Only handful of children abroad are put at such a grave disadvantage. The rest are in competition from the time they start to school. Either they prove by performance that they have a right to be educated, or they forfeit the privilege and are sentenced to a life of ignorance.

The result is a foreign student elite that can be compared properly only with the best students of the United States but is compared, instead, with the ordinary run of students here—the only place on earth with so much money running out of its ears and so much compassion running out of its heart that everybody has a chance to be called a student, whether or not he deserves it.

There is much to be grateful for in this, despite the confusion it causes. Even if it gives rise to unfavorable comparisons, it's good to know that America can afford the luxury of students imposters who actually are nothing but young people of student age enjoying the privilege of lingering in the pleasant groves of academia before pulling up their socks and trying to belt out a living and a life.

It won't last forever.

It would vanish faster than the next-to-last pork chop on a boardinghouse platter if the going ever got half as rough here as it has been from time immemorial in the Old World.

Government Faces Hard Facts of Economic Life

By DAVID LAWRENCE

It may sound like a paradox to point out a helpful inconsistency in government policy which has just emerged — but it could turn out to be a lesson learned.

Just 5½ months ago, the President of the United States stirred up a controversy when he denounced steel-company executives because they decided to raise prices so as to offset wage increases of the previous three years. The American people were told by Mr. Kennedy that "stability" was imperative — that the nation was confronted with grave crises in Berlin and Southeast Asia, that reservists were being asked to leave their homes and that union members were being asked to hold down their wage requests.

Today the President and the Congress have agreed that the government must raise both wages and prices in its own business establishment.

The international crises now are even more grave — the secretary of defense says they are "more serious than at any time since Korea." But the hard facts of economic life have been finally faced by the government in its own operations.

The prices of certain postal services rendered have not been high enough to cover costs. So the government in its own biggest business operation — the Post Office Department — has determined to raise the prices of its services to get the money to pay for them. About half of the $603 million in revenues to be derived from the increased prices to be charged for carrying the different classes of mail will be used to pay wage increases for postal employees.

THE OTHER HALF goes to help meet the deficit.

If there were no wage raises, the new revenues would have covered the entire $550 million deficit attributed to the cost of postal service to businesses and individuals. But, as it is, about $297 million will be available for the deficit. This, in ordinary or private business, would be regarded as a substantial advance toward a profit position.

Now there's no doubt that the price for the government's handling of the mail should go up as costs increase. Whether the price increases have been equitably distributed or the costs properly allocated may well be debated, but a price increase of some kind is justified — and a few weeks ago it looked like a stiffer hike would be made than has just been approved in Congress.

Also there's no doubt that many of the federal employees both in the Post Office Department and elsewhere deserve higher wage rates. They can belong to labor unions and the government helps collect the dues for the unions, but there can't be any strikes. So federal employees have to depend on political pressures to get an increase in wages through Congress. The real question is whether the wage rise follows any "guidelines" and whether "productivity" will be increased.

Even as the necessity for the wage-and-price increases is emphasized, so also is it significant that in this instance the spokesmen for the government, including the President, didn't raise a fuss over the economic consequences of what they are doing.

DOES IT MEAN that they at last recognize the validity of economic truth versus economic theory? For workers who have no incentive to work hard become careless and inefficient. Also, a government that pays out more than it takes in loses the confidence of the public. So an increase in the price of services rendered by the government does become essential, just as in private business.

Unfortunately, the government isn't consistent in these matters. It gives away many things free and performs without charge many special services for which it could get paid sums that would bring in extra revenues to help balance the budget.

But the most important aspect of what the government has just done in raising wages and prices in its own business is the certainty that the impact of this will be felt in private enterprise, as the public finds itself compelled to pay increased prices.

When wage rates in government go up, this has a relationship to employment scales in other lines. Also, if the costs of selling by mail rise, then somehow the increased cost has to be added to the price.

A boost of $903 million in mail costs isn't going to be paid entirely out of the profits of private business. There are some businesses, on the other hand, which, for a variety of reasons, will not be able to raise their prices. Some will find their expenses increasing and profits squeezed, if not wiped out altogether.

THE $603 MILLION cost item for mailing may be multiplied many times throughout the national economy before it is absorbed. The net result may be to help some of the larger businesses grow larger as they take over the customers of the small businesses that are forced to the wall of the profit-and-loss system.

The present stagnation in steel and in other industries is due to the impairment of economic law may be that the administration at last has recognized that stability as become a synonym for stagnation, and that price increases and wage increases must be allowed to find their own natural level in a constantly changing economy. So what seems to be an inconsistency by the administration could turn out to be a lesson learned from which business may yet derive some encouragement. Maybe steel can raise its prices next year, after all, when another demand arises for wage increases.

History Today

Today is Friday, Sept. 28, the 271st day of 1962. There are 94 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this day in 1542, Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo first sighted the California mainland.

On this date: In 1779, John Jay was sent to Spain as a U.S. commissioner.

In 1850, flogging was abolished in the U.S. Navy and on commercial ships.

In 1912, the steamer Kicker-maru sank off the Japanese coast with the loss of 1,000 lives.

In 1941, civil emergency was declared in much of Bohemia and 24 persons were shot by order of a Nazi court martial.

In 1950, France approved the new constitution of Premier Charles de Gaulle, thus establishing the Fifth Republic.

Today's birthdays: Sports executive Avery Brundage is 75. Cartoonist Al Capp is 53.

Not Exactly a Honeymoon

JFK on Spot In Next Steel Crisis

By VICTOR RIESEL

Sleepless and haggard government officials, who have been wallowing in waterfront, railroad and aerospace emergencies, now believe that a new steel crisis is beginning to zero in on them and the country.

There might well be a national steel strike. True, it can't come until next summer. But that's exactly the position the President and the nation were in a year ago.

At that time, Sept. 6, 1961, John Kennedy wrote to the heads of all major steel firms urging him not to raise prices and predicting that the union would limit its demands "next spring."

The steel firms replied they could not promise. Seven months later they attempted to raise those prices after giving the steel workers a 10.9 cents an hour increase per man in benefits.

ONE INCIDENT not reported that famous week in April came early on the morning of the 11th, after Mr. Labor himself, George Meany, had issued a statement praising the President's lightning action against the U.S. Steel Corp.

President Kennedy personally lifted the phone and called Meany. Saying hello he soon added, "Have you ever seen so many —s?" Terse and bluntp speaking Meany replied, "Yes." The President roared with laughter. No one knows what his reaction will be to the coming steel crisis. He will be on the spot. If the President does make similar calls seven months from today, it is not clear now whom he will have in mind.

Much depends on the statesmanship of silver-haired, pipe-smoking steel union president, David McDonald. He too has a critical decision to make. Few realize it, but the United Steelworkers of America, under the contract signed last spring, has the right to reopen the pact by giving 90 days' notice after May 1, '63. After Aug. 1 the union can strike the national steel industry.

Under that pact, nursed by Mr. Goldberg, the union can ask for higher wages, bigger pensions, larger insurance benefits. Also a number of items coming under the jurisdiction of the joint labor-management Human Relations Committee.

THESE ITEMS include the right of the steel firms to contract out some construction work instead of having the steel company employees do it themselves. Also whether some foreman can do actual production work in the plants.

There were influential delegates at the steel union Miami convention who insisted that the union put forward a hefty set of demands. The talk centered around the chances of winning another 10 cent-an-hour package.

Industry spokesmen say they can't go for another such package, or anywhere near it. They say that last April's agreement increased the cost of a steelworker from $4.12 an hour to $4.30. They add that another dime an hour would cost them another $140 million a year, thus cutting the total industry's profit from $690 million annually to some $400 million annually in a two-year period.

IN PITTSBURGH the other day, E. Heath Larry, a U.S. Steel vice president, said bluntly that the time has come for unions not to consider it a sacrifice to ask for nothing additional at contract time. There are union leaders who say that the companies are able to give. But it is positive that the firms won't without a struggle or renewed pressure from the President himself.

In view of the White House sensitivity over charges of being anti-business, it is not likely at this minute anyway that lightning will strike twice.

At the moment the President and his professorial, cautious Willard Wirtz are not repeating history. A year ago, with the steel contract still some nine months to run, President Kennedy dispatched his famous letters, now forgotten. However, he has not done so this time.

This may mean a change in approach, now that Mr. Goldberg has gone to higher places. Mr. Wirtz does not believe in moving the government in as swiftly as did Mr. Goldberg, nor in lifting the phone to labor leaders and saying, "The President asked me to . . ."

WIRTZ BELIEVES in less personal diplomacy and more hard bargaining and more adherence to the absolute letter of the labor law.

There is a dramatic example on the waterfront. For weeks now it has appeared that a longshoremen's strike of 90,000 men in all ports from upper Maine to lower Texas has been inevitable. Dealers in perishables have been warned by their association to get their produce across the seas and out of the ship holds.

However, this time there has not been the personal intervention, nor the informal White House telephoning. The theory now is to let it go all the way through the formal federal mediation services — and then let the President crack down with an injunction if the national welfare is actually threatened.

It may work better than the previous, more daring tactics. It not not. But there is a change in the air. Steel will tell.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I think you do more harm than good. I am sick and tired of your repeated statements that there is something wrong with young men in their late teens and early '20s if they don't try to maul and kiss every girl they go out with.

You told one young man who was 21 years old to seek professional help. In my opinion, he deserves three cheers and a pat on the back. And his dear mother deserves a medal for rearing such a wholesome lad.

The trouble with young people today is they are sex crazy. They have no respect for ideals which were once held sacred. If all the young men in this country were like that 21-year-old who wrote to you, Ann Landers, we could close all homes for unwed mothers, and wouldn't that be grand? —NEGATIVE VOTE.

Dear Negative: If all the boys in this country were like the young man who wrote to me we could close everything because there wouldn't be any people.

The poor fellow said he'd been going with a young woman for several months and wanted very much to kiss her but he was paralyzed with fear. For years his mother had warned him against "defiling" a girl and spoiling her good name.

I think it's pretty sad when a fellow who is old enough to vote is afraid to kiss a girl for fear of marking her for life. Such a young man is not virtuous — he's sick.

Penny Pinchers

Dear Ann: We have two children, aged 8 and 9. They receive an allowance of 25 cents a week. My husband thinks they should buy everything they need with their allowance, except clothing.

Recently we bought them bikes. Now he says they must save $2 out of their allowances to buy their own licenses. They were even told to start saving for new tires which they may need later on. One bike needs a new handle grip right now so — "save for that."

Don't get me wrong, I think it is wonderful for children to learn the value of saving, but it seems my husband expects an awful lot out of an allowance of 25 cents a week. Our youngsters don't even have a nickel to buy a bottle of pop or the price of a movie ticket on Saturday.

Incidentally, if my husband had taught HIMSELF how to save we'd be in a lot better shape today. Thank you. — DAVEPORT, IA.

Dear Davenport: I agree it's a fine idea to teach children to save (and it seems to be something of a lost art today) BUT your husband is expecting too much mileage out of two bits a week.

If your children must buy everything they need except clothing, their allowance should be doubled at least.

Brother's Confidant

Dear Ann: My brother tells me things he'd never tell our parents. He's a good kid but sometimes I must admit he's a little wild.

Several days ago when the folks were out of town for the weekend my brother had a gang of kids over. There was some drinking and general whoop-de-do. The next day we cleaned up the house together and when Mom and Dad returned they didn't suspect a thing.

The folks are planning another trip soon and my brother is planning another party. I hate to double-cross him but I don't think my parents deserve this kind of treatment. Shall I tell them if he goes ahead against my advice? — SIS.

Dear Sis: Don't betray your brother's confidence. Do what you can to talk him out of giving the party — even refuse to help him clean up the house to cover the traces. But don't snitch.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

As Economy Falters

'Belt Tightening' Is Starting In Yugoslavia

By EUGENE LEVIN
BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Just off Marx and Engels Square the shops are selling Elvis Presley records, the cafes are dishing out whipped-cream cakes and the customers gaily invent political jokes.

There may be an occasional mention of austerity, but on the surface it's hard to find.

Through the eyes of visitors from other Communist countries, it does not seem to exist. To them Belgrade is a shopping and dining mecca.

However, the belt tightening is there.

It started last spring when the Yugoslav economy started to lose momentum, and the country's foreign debt approached the $1-billion mark. President Tito's government ordered cuts in imports and moved to reduce industrial costs.

Plant executives felt the austerity. Trips they had planned abroad were canceled. Expense accounts were reduced. Factories had to find raw materials in Yugoslavia or soft currency areas, instead of importing from the hard-currency West.

Some imported cosmetics disappeared from the shops. The import of foreign autos was halted.

On the whole, however, austerity has meant nothing to the great mass of Yugoslavs. Shops are still filled with clothing, toys, leather goods, furniture and countless consumer items. Markets still provide plenty of meat and vegetables — the most varied and plentiful diet in Eastern Europe.

Many Yugoslavs can afford only to window-shop. Monthly industrial wages are around $50. But the glittering show windows on Belgrade's tree-lined boulevards promise a better life.

Food, despite a 6 per cent cost of living increase between December and April, remains relatively cheap. Restaurants and sidewalk cafes are crowded. On Saturday nights the better ones, with gypsy violinists or jazz combos, lack room for all the fun-loving Serbians. The twist is catching on.

Visitors from the booming West may not be impressed, but visitors from the East are. Yugoslav Communists — who split with the Kremlin in 1948—enjoy watching Russian, Bulgarian and Romanian tourists.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise: I have one of those fancy rugs in my bathroom with all of the fuzz on it. After washing it the first time I thought it was ruined. My next door neighbor told me that I had washed the rug improperly and now I know she was right. So I would like to pass her goodness along.

I know that it was not soa-free. One can either use a water softener or a half-cup of vinegar in the rinse water. When putting it in the dryer I found that it was best not to let it get completely dry because this seems to shrink it. I then laid it out on a concrete floor and took a metal wire brush and brushed the fuzz in all directions. This gave me perfect results and it looked as good as new!

MRS. BATHMAT
DEAR HELOISE: Please tell me how I can determine whether a detergent has bleach in it?
DEBRA

The National Institute of Rug Cleaning tells us that one method that might be used is to take an ink, such as a washable blue black, put it in a glass and add lots of water to it. Then by adding some of the detergent which you feel has a bleach; it most likely will remove the color.

HELOISE
DEAR HELOISE: I have a new dryer — the third I have owned. Now I know I have used them incorrectly for years!

I have found that instead of putting in a whole load of clothes, if I put in only about four or five items in a pre-heated dryer and let it run only about half the usual time, then remove the clothes from the dryer and place the garments on coat hangers, they will be almost wrinkle free!

Now don't think I'm crazy. I think we are not wasting money by only drying a few garments at a time because . . . instead of running that dryer a long time we are only going to run it a few minutes!

I find it far better to run my dryer with three, four or five garments in it for short periods, removing them and pressing them immediately . . . than to load it up with pounds and pounds of clothes and have them all come out wrinkled!

There is another trick to this. Try the method that Heloise recommends — use the dryer for the clock! See if you can partially touch up these garments before the next load comes out! Gals, it's fun to see if you can outwit a mechanical object much better than trying to outwit your husband.

HOUSEWIFE

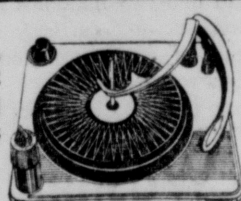

DEAR HELOISE: I use a large powder puff to dip in my flour when dusting the rolling pin! I keep it right in my flour bin at all times . . . saves flour too.

Adult Courses Offered at Beaver Local

Adult education registration for the first semester of the 1962-63 school year at Beaver Local High School will be held Monday and Tuesday from 4 to 9 p. m. at the principal's office in the high school, Lee A. Kirkland, director, announced.

Courses offered through the adult program are planned to serve a dual purpose: educational and recreational. Two - hour classes meeting once a week for a period of 10 weeks will constitute the course. Classes will begin the week of Oct. 8.

If registration warrants, courses will be offered in typing I and II, shorthand I, practical office experience, bookkeeping, sewing, art, conversational Spanish, conversational French, practical mathematics, speed reading, creative writing, and men and women's recreation. Other courses will be included in the program provided 10 or more persons are interested.

The art course will include free hand sketching, charcoal, finger and water paints. The men's and women's recreation program will consist of physical fitness exercises, basketball, and volleyball.

Registration fee for school district residents will be seven dollars for each course. For those who live outside Beaver Local district and wish to enroll, the fee will be eight dollars for each course.

If additional information is desired, Kirkland may be contacted at the high school.

Highland Speaker

Rev. Edwin J. Smith

Rev. Edwin J. Smith of Painesville, evangelist of the Northeast Ohio Evangelistic Association, will speak at revival services at the Highland Christian Church starting at 7:29 p. m. Sunday and continuing through Oct. 5.

Mrs. Ray Patterson will be in charge of the music.

Rev. W. Grant Ward is pastor of the church.

Fund Projects Discussed by Reilly PTA

Officers and committee chairmen were introduced by Wayne Steffel, who presided at the business session, when members of the Reilly School Parent Teachers Association met Tuesday evening at the school. Teachers were introduced to the assembled parents by Principal Earle Smith.

Steffel explained the function of the executive committee and gave a resume of its first meeting Sept. 18. Mrs. Kathleen Kerr will serve as teacher representative to the committee.

Various fund raising projects were discussed, with Richard Karlis in charge of further studies of the projects.

Members approved a measure making $100 available to Principal Smith for purchase of additional educational aids while attending conferences throughout the school year.

Following the business session David Linton presented an Ohio Bell Telephone Co. movie "Seconds for Survival."

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Thomas Paparodis, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Gus Paparodis, Mrs. Stanford Metz and Mrs. Steven Hoffman.

The sixth grade room mothers will be responsible for refreshments at the next meeting Oct. 23.

GOING ON EST
Beginning Monday morning, all Beaver Local School District activities will be scheduled for Eastern Standard Time, it was announced today.

An Old-Timer

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Are you an old-timer?

An old-timer is a person who enjoys using the present as a reminiscent springboard back into the past. Anything that happens today reminds him of something else that happened in some yesterday of his life.

There is a difference between an old-timer and an old fogey. An old fogey is a living fossil who feels everything in the past was better. An old-timer simply gets a nostalgic pleasure out of recalling what went before—whether it was better or worse.

You are probably an old-timer yourself if you can remember when—

You first learned to make music by humming through a piece of tissue paper on a pocket comb. "The Stars and Stripes Forever" was perhaps the best tune for this form of art.

Most boys carried their marbles in a Bull Durham tobacco sack. It was a patriotic duty to help beat the kaiser in the first World War by saving tinfoil from cigarette packs.

Folks feared the first family that started cooking with gas would blow up the whole neighborhood.

No baby had got off to a proper start in life until its fond parents had had it photographed, sans diaper, lying tummy down on a cloth of plush.

It was widely believed that if Congress raised the income tax rate above 10 per cent it would spur a bloody, nationwide revolution.

Johnny not only could read—but could also write legibly and work out problems in arithmetic.

Few school boards would hire a married schoolmarm, because a married woman's place was in the home.

Farmers blamed their woes on Wall Street, and Wall Street regarded William Jennings Bryan as a wild-eyed radical.

The liniment for men and horses came out of the same bottle. Foods were fried in lard, and nobody had ever heard of polyunsaturated fats.

If you left a waitress more than a dime tip, she knew for sure you were from out of town.

High school lads got their first lessons in feminine anatomy by sneaking into a burlesque show on Saturday afternoon. But they learned less than they do today by looking at the girdle ads in a woman's magazine.

There was no such thing as a joint family checking account. If a wife wanted a new bonnet, rather than ask her husband for the money she'd save it up from her household allowance.

Yes, that's how America used to be. Remember old-timer?

New Threat Faced By Canadian Government

By RELMAN MORIN
OTTAWA (AP)—A new threat to Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker's minority government developed today after three opposition leaders trained a stream of critical fire on his proposed new legislative program.

The conservative government outlined its plans to inject new life into the economy at the opening session of Canada's 25th Parliament Thursday.

Sharply unfavorable reaction came swiftly from the chiefs of the opposition parties.

"A rehash. Most disappointing and inadequate," said Lester B. Pearson, Liberal party leader.

"Confusing verbiage that veils the shortcomings and omissions," said Robert Thompson, Social Credit chief.

"If this stands as a definite commitment by this government, we are headed for real trouble," said T. C. Douglas, national leader of the New Democrats.

Diefenbaker's program, set forth in the traditional speech from the throne, emphasized measures aimed at dispelling what Canadian political leaders have called the nation's financial and economic crisis.

Among the stipulated objectives were:

A balanced federal budget. Canada has had five consecutive years of deficit spending. The message said a program of economies in government expenditures will be presented to Parliament.

"Positive constructive measures to strengthen Canada's balance of international payments." For nine years, there has been an imbalance. Last summer, the government borrowed $650 million to bolster foreign exchange reserves.

"A climate in Canada hospitable to foreign investment." The speech pointed out that Canadian development needs imports of capital. The American investment alone is officially estimated at $18 billion.

A national economic development board to review the economy, and to "recommend particular projects or measures which it considers would be in the interest of national development."

The combined votes of the three opposition parties are enough to destroy Diefenbaker's regime on a motion of confidence.

They hold a total of 148 seats in Parliament, as against 116 for Diefenbaker's Conservatives. A majority of 133 would unseat the government, necessitating a new general election.

Pearson has said he would move a vote of no confidence in his opening speech in Parliament Monday.

Meredith

marshals) not coming."

Kennedy halted Meredith's party, late Thursday as the Korean War veteran was driving here with federal marshals.

A helmeted and club-carrying army of Mississippi peace officers waited at Ole Miss as Kennedy conferred in Washington with an Army general.

Meredith's lawyers in New Orleans said he had advised him "to make no further efforts to enter the campus until after the insurrection there has been put down by the executive branch of the government."

Kennedy conferred by telephone with his brother, President Kennedy, for at least 10 minutes Thursday night on the Meredith case. The President was in Wheeling, W. Va., to address a political rally.

Sources close to Barnett said the governor—who has vowed to go to jail rather than integrate Ole Miss—would not appear in court at New Orleans at the hearing.

Alabama Gov. John Patterson told President Kennedy that Alabama and Mississippi stand united and asked if the President was "prepared to invade Alabama as well." In a telegram, Patterson urged the President not to use federal troops in Mississippi.

In Dallas, Tex., former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker called for massive resistance if soldiers are sent to Ole Miss.

"Now is the time to be heard: 10,000 strong from every state in the Union," said Walker, who commanded troops that forced integration of Central High School in Little Rock, Ark., in 1957.

"The last time I was on the wrong side," Walker said. "This time I am on the right side and I will be there."

cans in Congress as defeatists—Democrats as progressives.

Kennedy carries his attack the weekend of Oct. 5-7 into Covington, Ky.; Cincinnati; Detroit, Flint and Muskegon, Mich.; Minneapolis, St. Paul and St. Cloud, Minn.

He'll be on the trail every weekend and sometimes during the week until election day.

Born Dec. 15, 1881, in Green Township, she was a daughter of Joseph and Florence Stahl Weikart and she lived her entire life in this area. On Jan. 3, 1900, she married Ensign N. Sauerwein, who died March 23, 1958.

Mrs. Sauerwein leaves four daughters, Mrs. Homer Schaeffer, Mrs. Clayton Burkhardt and Mrs. Ralph Ackerman, all of Canfield, and Mrs. Charles Rapp of North Lima; four sons, Ansel, Robert and Raymond Sauerwein of Canfield and Arnold Sauerwein of Salem; a sister, Mrs. Mary Calvin of Greenford; 19 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at the Seely-Bell Funeral Home in North Lima, with Rev. Samuel Gross officiating. Friends may call at the funeral home Saturday evening.

Burial will be in Greenford.

With the Patients

Ray Davis, 44, of RD 1, North Benton, was treated and released at 9:20 a.m. Thursday at Alliance City Hospital for a sprain of the right wrist suffered when he fell from the back of a truck.

nally available to Kennedy likely will be somewhat less because a conference committee will have to choose between the Senate and House figures.

In addition to changing the money totals the Senate committee modified House amendments aimed at banning aid to countries whose ships carry arms or other supplies to Cuba. Kennedy would have discretionary authority to waive the ban.

And, the committee substituted for a House bar against any aid to Poland and Yugoslavi discretionary authority for Kennedy to extend economic help to those countries upon a determination and a report to Congress that:

- (1) It is vital to U.S. security,
- (2) The recipient country is not controlled by the Sino-Soviet axis and
- (3) It will promote a country's independence from the international Communist conspiracy.

Canadian Topside Sounder

In a joint undertaking, the U.S. and Canada will orbit the first "topside sounder," or satellite probe of the ionosphere. Called the Alouette or S-27, the Canadian-built, American-launched satellite will investigate the layers of charged particles around the earth which reflect shortwave radio signals. Left, three Canadian scientists examine a model of the Alouette. Visible at the middle are two of four antenna housings. Stored inside the satellite on reels, the antennas will be extended in space from 75 to 150 feet. Above, map shows earth's northern aurora zone, one of the phenomena of the ionosphere. North Pole is geographic pole; Dip Pole is magnetic pole, to which compass needles point; Geomagnetic Pole is point where lines of the earth's magnetic field converge.

Air Crash Survivors Cheer As Ship Reaches Antwerp

ANTWERP, Belgium (AP)—Survivors of the Flying Tiger airliner that ditched in the Atlantic waved and shouted with joy at the sight of land as the rescue ship Celerina reached Antwerp today.

U.S. Air Force Maj. Harry O. Benson of Marshfield Hill, Mass., cried out: "Everybody of our group is in good physical condition!"

The Swiss freighter carried 27 of the survivors it plucked from stormy seas 500 miles off Ireland on Sunday after the chartered airliner with 76 persons aboard—mostly American servicemen and their families—made a crashed landing on a flight to West Germany.

Of 48 survivors, 21 have since been transferred to hospitals in Ireland and England. Twelve bodies were recovered. Sixteen other passengers are missing and presumed dead.

Aboard the Celerina, the survivors lined the deck rails or peered through portholes as the rescue ship moved up the River Scheldt to Antwerp. Some wore makeshift clothes provided them by the ship's crew or flown to them.

Carol Ann Gould, 22, of Lyndhurst, N.J., one of the hostesses on the airliner, appeared on the deck wearing slacks and a sweat-er.

Samuel T. Nicholson, 32, of Dallas, Pa., navigator of the Flying Tiger airliner who was landed in Ireland after being reached, flew here to meet other survivors.

"I am in pretty good shape," he said. "I have chemical burns on the back of my legs—you could say second-degree burns. I have a few other small burns but they are not worth worrying about. I am lucky, compared to other people."

Nicholson was unable to walk unaided, but otherwise looked fit. He said the airliner pilot, Capt. John D. Murray of Oyster Bay, N.Y., also aboard the Celerina, suffered head cuts and apparently a slight concussion, but he was not seriously injured, Nicholson said.

The journey for the 24 men and 3 women picked out of the Atlantic ended at noon as the Celerina nosed into the lock at the entrance to the docks.

A spokesman for the U.S. Service Hospital at Burdop, England, said survivors under treatment there are making excellent progress and are just fine.

exiling their children because after graduation the young people don't have the opportunity to work in the state: the governor asserted.

"None of these statistics can be taken all alone and held up as proving Ohio's economic position is sound or bleak," the governor explained. "You have to consider the whole picture, and the voters haven't been getting exactly that in recent weeks and days."

As a case in point, DiSalle cited a report from the Ohio State Employment Service which noted that the total of persons placed in non-farm jobs during the first eight months of this year was nearly 25 per cent higher than for the corresponding 1961 period.

"It would be easy to cite this figure as dramatic evidence of an improvement in Ohio's economy," the governor said. "But if we did that, we wouldn't be telling the people the whole truth."

"What the increase really means," he explained, "is that we have accomplished an improvement in government service, that the Ohio State Employment Service is doing a better job of placing people than it did in the first eight months of 1961. "But it doesn't mean we have solved any fundamental problems as far as unemployment is concerned," DiSalle asserted.

"I don't want to be governor under these conditions and be afraid to speak on the needs of the state," he concluded.

New officers of the Salem Democratic Central Committee were installed last night. They are James Aldom, chairman; Ben Barrett, vice chairman; Mrs. Ida Austin, secretary, and Lloyd Morrison, treasurer.

Hostesses were Mrs. Sylvia Lockhart, Mrs. Harold Asty, Mrs. Heda McGranahan, Mrs. Susan Schmid, Mrs. Dean B. Cranmer, Mrs. Earl Yeager, Mrs. Ernest Brudery, Mrs. James Kleinman and Mrs. Harold G. Hannay.

Graduate engineers are virtually immune to unemployment, the Engineers Joint Council has reported. Continuing shortages in their profession, technological complexities of modern living, and the demands of military establishments create this happy picture. Industry provides the highest salaries for engineers, and the government, the lowest.

Ray Reasbeck

Reasbeck to Be UF Drive Co-Chairman

Postmaster Ray Reasbeck today was named vice-chairman of the United Fund campaign that will get under way Oct. 9.

He will assist General Chairman Paul E. Smith, superintendent of Salem public schools who accepted the top post last spring.

Reasbeck, who has been active in community affairs for many years, fills the vacancy on the UF executive team caused when Delmer Smith, Ohio Fuel Gas Co. manager, was transferred to Alliance.

The Advanced Gifts Committee is continuing its work in preparation of the opening of the city's annual chest campaign in two weeks. George Baillie, Jr., is chairman of this team. Co-chairmen are George Perrault, Jr., James H. Wilson, Sr., F. Troy Cope, Jr., and Rolland F. Webber.

The United Fund goal this year is the same as last year—$82,000. Twelve "red feather" agencies participate in the community fund.

David Hawkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hawkins of RD 1, New Waterford, is a student at Ohio University. Ralph Urmson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Urmson of RD 1, Rogers is attending Ohio State University.

Kent State University students include Mildred and Raymond Wise, daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wise of Elkton Road, and John Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Baker of Rogers.

Bonnie Wise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wise is attending Western Reserve University.

Other students are Tom and John Plate, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur R. Plate of RD 1, Rogers, University of Cincinnati; Sue MacFarland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. MacFarland of Rogers-Clarkson Road, Miami University at Oxford; and Jay Grubbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Grubbs of RD 1, Rogers, Muskingum College.

Two Employed by Welfare Department

LISBON — Two persons were hired as investigators in the Columbiana County Welfare Department Thursday, Robert Bycroft, county welfare director, said.

Miss Sylvia Siudak of Wells-ville, a 1960 graduate of Wells-ville High School with two years of schooling at Kent State University, and Mrs. Thelma Circle of Salem, a registered nurse, will attend three-week course beginning Monday at the Franklin County Welfare headquarters at Columbus.

The two will start their duties as investigators on Oct. 22.

Mrs. Myrtle McPherson of Lisbon has retired after working in the welfare department for the past 11 years. Her retirement becomes effective Monday, Bycroft said.

special grand jury. DiSalle said the appearance of reporters would be for information which they might possess on a first-hand basis without disclosing the source of any other information.

"My one simple interest is to make certain not only that no one outside of state government has violated the law," DiSalle continued, "but that no state employee has in any way violated his oath of office or the responsibilities of his particular position."

"I do want to be certain that, if such evidence does exist, such individuals are prosecuted and that any violation of his official responsibilities be prosecuted before the Department of Personnel of the State of Ohio."

The president of the Chicago firm also stated in his letter that when his company turned down repeated requests for whisky and more money, the brands were delisted in Ohio Stores.

Liquor Department records show that Waterfill & Frazier products were delisted in 1960 and 1961 for "failing to meet required months sales quotas set by the department through an International Business Machines computer system."

Flanagan, in Florida on business, denied being involved in the allegations. In a statement released Thursday night by a Dayton public relations firm, Flanagan said:

"I have met Mr. Makler only twice. Once was for about a half-hour in a group of other people. The second time was when I passed him in the hotel lobby and said hello."

Flanagan, however, said Makler telephoned him some time later asking why he was not getting any business from the Liquor Department.

Flanagan said he checked with Crouch and found that Makler's products were not selling in the state stores and had to be sold at specially reduced prices.

"I relayed this information to Mr. Makler and that was the last I have ever heard from him," Flanagan's statement concluded.

Two Road Mishaps Probed by Patrol

Two one-car accidents were investigated Thursday night by Lisbon patrolmen of the Ohio Highway Patrol.

The first accident happened at 9:15 p.m. on County Road 430, north of East Liverpool near the Pennsylvania State line.

A car driven by Gloria S. Davis, 25, Chester, W. Va., traveling east on County Road 430, went off the south side of the road on a curve, struck an embankment and overturned the patrol said.

A car driven by Rocco Demaiolo, 29, of Sebring was involved in a mishap at 1:30 a.m. today on Rt. 62, one and two-tenths of a mile west of Salem. He was passing another vehicle when he lost control of his car, went off the north side of the road and struck a mailbox the patrol reported.

FORD MOTOR COMPANY EXTENDS UNIQUE LINCOLN CONTINENTAL 24-MONTH—24,000-MILE WARRANTY TO ALL '63 PASSENGER CARS AND TRUCKS

These are the cars

LINCOLN CONTINENTAL

This is the total-car warranty

Ford Motor Company warrants to its dealers, and its dealers in turn warrant to owners, as follows: that for 24 months or for 24,000 miles, whichever comes first, free replacement, including related labor, will be made by dealers of any part with a defect in workmanship or materials. Tires are not covered by the warranty; appropriate adjustments will be made by tire companies. Owners will remain responsible for normal maintenance services, routine replacement of parts, such as filters, spark plugs, ignition points, wiper blades and brake or clutch linings, and normal deterioration of soft trim and appearance items. The benefits of the warranty are available to the original purchaser and to subsequent owners of the vehicle during the time and mileage limits prescribed in the warranty.

Here is what it means to you

The new 1963 Ford-built cars and trucks are quality-engineered and manufactured to serve you better and last longer than ever before. The proof is in the warranty . . . proof of quality unheard of a few years ago.

In fact, it was only two years ago that Ford Motor Company announced the 12-month, 12,000-mile passenger car warranty which became the industry standard as other manufacturers followed Ford's lead. At the same time, Lincoln Continental became the only American-built car warranted for two full years or 24,000 miles, whichever came first. Now, this warranty applies to all Ford-built cars, regardless of price. Why is this possible?

Actually, the new warranty is a natural outgrowth of the engineering leadership that has resulted in twice-a-year (or every 6,000-mile) passenger car maintenance. It goes hand-in-glove with such Ford-pioneered service savers as the elimination of the 1,000-mile inspection . . . 30,000- to 36,000-mile intervals between major lubrications, 6,000-mile intervals between oil changes and minor lubrications, self-adjusting brakes, aluminized mufflers, and longer-life electrical systems.

These features that save you time and money as you drive are a direct reflection of the total quality achievements of Ford Motor Company.

Giants Fail To Gain Despite Dodgers' 8-6 Setback

Magic Number For LA Now 2

Musial Collects 5 Hits For St. Louis

By JIM HACKLEMAN

Associated Press Sports Writer

This National League pennant marathon is taking on the look of a race between two tired turtles going uphill.

But if they aren't moving very fast, at least the finish line is in sight.

For all their speed and verve, Los Angeles' pace-setting Dodgers have been backing up. And with a big burst of drive and determination, San Francisco's second-place Giants have been standing still.

The pestiferous Houston Colts applied the latest stopper to the Dodgers with a rallying 8-6 victory Thursday night at Los Angeles. A few hours before, the St. Louis Cardinals broke in front with a commanding lead and held on for a 7-4 decision at San Francisco.

That left the Dodgers still two games in front of the Giants and the magic number at two—meaning any combination of Dodger wins and/or Giant losses totaling two in the remaining three games gives Los Angeles the flag. The two contenders now change partners, with the Cards moving into Los Angeles for the final three games of the season and the Colts going to San Francisco for the win/loss weekend.

Gene Oliver and Stan Musial spearheaded the Cards' against the Giants. Oliver warmed up with a double, then smacked a three-run homer that stood up as the clincher, while Musial collected five singles in five tries.

In the NL's only other game, Dennis Bennett fired a five-hitter as the sizzling Philadelphia Phils won for the 19th time in their last 24 games, 7-0 over Chicago.

The American League resumes competition today after taking Thursday off. Right-hander Early Wynn of the Chicago White Sox, gunning for his 300th career victory, faces the champion Yankees at New York tonight; Los Angeles is at Cleveland for a two-night doubleheader; and Baltimore is at Minnesota and Kansas City at Detroit for day games. Washington and Boston are idle.

Even in defeat the Dodgers were heartened by the work of Sandy Koufax, their left-handed strikeout specialist who is just rounding into form after a two-month layoff due to circulation trouble in the index finger of his pitching hand. He went five innings before he tired, set down the first 11 Colts in order, struck out four and allowed three hits.

But the Dodgers' relief corps failed badly. The Colts hopped on Ed Roebuck and Larry Sherry for four hits and their four runs in the sixth, taking a 6-4 lead, and after Los Angeles rallied for a tie in the bottom of the inning, Houston scrambled ahead again in the seventh against Ron Perranoski.

Umbrecht took over with the bases filled and none out in the sixth and wound up with his fourth victory in as many decisions.

The Cardinals lost little time taking charge against the Giants, rapping lefty Billy O'Dell for two runs in the first inning. Oliver's double plus rookie right-hander Ray Washburn's single gave St. Louis another run in the fourth, then came the Cards' big fifth climaxed by Oliver's big hit.

Washburn now is 12-9 while O'Dell, looking for his 20th victory, lost his 14th.

Wrigley Field's smallest crowd of the year, 617, watched Bennett 22, deal the Cubs their 102nd loss and 14th shutout this season. Bennett struck out six and walked three. Tony Taylor and Roy Sievers collected three hits each for the Phillies and Clay Dalrymple homered.

GIFTED WITH A BAT

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Manager Hank Bauer of the Kansas City Athletics credits the hitting of outfielder Manny Jimenez as one of the reasons why his team has been high in hitting.

"Jimenez is gifted with a bat," says Bauer. "He hits the ball all over the place. Milwaukee reports were that he was no gazelle in the outfield but he hasn't hurt us."

Rabbit ball? Only 794 home runs were hit by American League teams in 1952. Last year junior circuit sluggers accounted for 1,534.

Giants Get Nod Over Pittsburgh

Eagles Favored Over Browns Sunday; Packers Are Picked

By JACK CLARY

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—If Sonny Liston is looking for a new challenge now that he's won the heavyweight championship, we'd suggest he try to forecast the winners of the weekend's professional football games.

It's doubtful if Sonny could come close to matching his 34-1 boxing record.

Last week's forecasting count from this corner was 6 right, 5 wrong. For the season 10-10-1. Here's another try at it:

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Philadelphia over Cleveland—Eagles are due for victory and best way against Browns is Jurgensen to McDonald-Retzlaff combo that goes quicker and farther than Jimmy Brown-Tom Wilson Cleveland ground game.

Green Bay over Chicago—Packers are healthy, and defense is too robust for Bears, who have halfbacks Willie Galimore and Charley Bivins on the battered list along with fullback Rick Cates and end Mike Ditka.

Baltimore over Detroit—Lions' Milt Plum has to cool off from 72 per cent completion average, and Colts quarterback Johnny Unitas has answer to Detroit's ferocious line with his better-than-ever passing.

New York over Pittsburgh—Giants showed they can weather fierce aerial attack last week and should handle Bobby Layne, while newly-found backfield speed and title-to-Shorner bombs support their defensive efforts.

Dallas over Los Angeles—Cowboys finally put all their offensive gridders as the best football team in the land.

The Buckeyes meet North Carolina at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in their first step to prove the scribes were right and climb back into the top spot which Alabama gained this week. Ohio State now is ranked No. 2.

It's the first tussle between the Tar Heels and the Ohioans. North Carolina was upset 7-6 by North Carolina State last Saturday, but center and captain Joe Craver of the Heels declared:

"We're a much better team than we showed in the opener. I think people will find that out when we meet Ohio State. I'm looking forward to it."

Although the Bucks seldom point for non-conference games, the odds-fellows have installed them as 15-point favorites.

The Buckeyes will offer an all letterman offensive unit of eight seniors and three juniors, but at least five sophomores will be on the defensive corps. Last year practically the same offense except for end Chuck Bryant and fullback Bob Ferguson, won eight and tied one—only to have the university faculty turn down the Rose Bowl invitation.

Paul Warfield and Bob Klein, the hurting halfbacks who have missed much of the four-week tune-ups, are in top shape for the inaugural fray. But offensive end Bob Middleton and defensive back Bill Hess will sit this one out due to injuries. Matt Snell probably will move into the vacant end spot—meaning he'll play both ways—and junior Bob Bruney is slated to take over for Hess.

The fullback spot is still a tossup, with Dave Francis, Bob Butts and Dave Katterhenrich fighting for the berth. Francis is expected to get the starting call.

Loop Races Headline Ohio College Football Saturday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—After a couple of weeks of sparring, mostly with out-of-state opposition, Ohio's college grid squads bang into conference conflict Saturday.

Of the 19 games on the Saturday slate, 11 will be in various leagues.

Ohio University, 31-0 winner over Toledo, could move out front in the Mid-American Conference as the Bobcats invade Kent State for a night game Kent has a 1-1 losing to Xavier in non-league frays. Western Michigan and Miami's two-game winners open conference play at Oxford.

The Ohio Conference has a seven-game slate on tap, only Denison taking the day off to play host to Carnegie Tech. Akron, winner of the lone loop game played to date, entertains Baldwin-Wallace in a big one.

Wittenberg's defending champs visit Otterbein in another stand-out, and the conference slate is rounded out with Oberlin at Hiram, Wooster at Kenyon, Ohio Wesleyan at Heidelberg, Capital at Mount Union and Marietta at Muskingum.

Ohio State opens by entertaining North Carolina, and another eye-catcher sends Cincinnati against Indiana in the Queen City. Indiana was a three-touchdown victor over Kansas State last week, and the Bearcats whipped Dayton 13-0.

The Mid-Ohio Conference, shorn of several members since last season, launches its title drive with Ashland at Defiance and Wilmington at Bluffton. Findlay and Ohio Northern, which dropped from the league, meet at Ada. Other games are McMurray at Youngstown, Hillsdale at Central State, Bowling Green at Dayton and Detroit at Xavier.

Alabama Risks No. 1 Rating Against Rival

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Sports Writer.

Paul Bryant is a large, dour man whose size and disposition won him the nickname "Bear," as in "grumpy as a bear." He has been known to belie the name, however, and smile and even say nice things about his football team.

But not at this time of the year. Only when it's all wrapped up for the season. So it's no great surprise that he is less than enthusiastic—at least outwardly—about Alabama's chances as he sends his Crimson Tide against Tulane tonight.

A sample quote from the Bear: "Tulane's going to knock off some people this year, and it'll probably be us."

It could be he's right, but the odds are long against it. For instance, Alabama is the defending national champion and ranked No. 1 in the country on the basis of its 35-0 record in each team's opener last week. Tulane, coming off a 2-8 season last year, lost its opener to Stanford 6-3.

Virginia Military visits Richmond in the only other major game tonight.

Saturday, Ohio State, ranked second in the nation, and sixth ranked Michigan State open their seasons. North Carolina visits Ohio State while Michigan State visits Stanford.

All other nationally-ranked teams have 1-0 records for the season, and each figures to improve Saturday. They include Texas (No. 3) at Texas Tech, Air Force at Penn State (No. 4), Rice at Louisiana State (No. 5), Kentucky at Mississippi (No. 7), Georgia Tech (No. 8) at Florida, Southern California (No. 9) at Southern Methodist and Missouri (No. 10) at Minnesota.

Tribe Series With Angels Ends Season

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians end the season with four games against the Los Angeles Angels here, starting with a two-night doubleheader tonight. The Indians need a sweep to win the season's series from the West Coast team.

The Angels, who surprised most everyone but themselves by being one of the top contenders for the American League pennant, have won eight of 14 games between the two teams. The Indians hold a 5-4 edge in Los Angeles, but the Angels have won four of the five games played here.

Dick Donovan, the Indians' first 20-game winner since 1956, and Jim (Mudcat) Grant (6-10) will hurl for the Tribe tonight.

NOSTALGIC CHARM, so mindful of quiet days of yesteryear, pervades the setting of this Suburban home near Salem, on Damascus Road. Designed for the traditional large family this two-story brick, with two-car garage has four bedrooms and bath. Entertainment sized living room is augmented by a cheerful sunporch for varied use. The cordial dining room is ample for candlelight dinner for all. The modern kitchen makes the task so light for Mom. Of all the 15 acres of grounds that part most cherished is where the family gathers in the rear to remembrance and barbecue. The kids will really love it, too. Ideal place for pony or horse. The owner must forsake all this and leave for distant parts, so you may now enjoy living here. Convenient terms may be arranged.

Pheasant-Raising Business Not 'All In Book,' Salem Man Learns

Hundreds of Birds Lost Through Hard Experience

By VIRGINIA HURRAY

At dusk this evening, when birds are becoming, 500 home-grown pheasants will be rounded up on the Mead farm north of Salem.

In an hour or two, Harry Mead, his wife Dorothy and their teen-age daughter Dixie, with assistance of friends, will have the pheasants crated, 10 to 13 birds to a holder, then placed on a truck. And Harry will drive away in the night to a game preserve in Indiana.

The Meads have made a number of out-of-state shipments since they took up pheasant raising just three years ago. Before autumn of 1959, the Salem family admit, they had only an amateur's knowledge about the ring-necked feathered creatures. Three years ago they sent to Wisconsin for 15 pheasants, and at about the same time they bought a book on pheasant raising.

BY LATE SUMMER OF THE next year the Meads owned 400 birds, progeny of the original 12 hens and three roosters. In 1961, Harry, Dorothy and Dixie, who live on five acres near Dunn Eden Lake, raised and sold more than 1,700 of the light-meated birds. This summer their hatch totaled 3,000.

Not that everything's been easy. "The book helped us a lot," relates Dorothy, "but some things we learned the hard way—through sad experience."

There were at first quite a number of bloody instances wherein one sweet-looking baby bird would peck at his brother or sister's head, causing considerable damage or even demise. Thus the Meads found out about the need for de-beaking.

AND THIS SUMMER one night in early July there was a freakish sudden rainstorm after many rainless days. Only hours before the downpour, 500 half-grown birds had been placed in holding pens. The young birds, with no knowledge of rainstorm, became frightened and piled up tightly together—and more than half of them suffocated. In the morning there were 142 live birds where there had been half a thousand at sundown.

"We're always learning," points out Dorothy. Lately seven guinea hens, which serve as watchdogs, have been added to the hundreds of pheasants on the Mead farm. Night and days, the guinea hens can be counted on to squawk if something's wrong. They'll scare off a preying weasel or owl, and the guinea hens will keep the pheasants from bunching.

In fact, the things the Meads have learned first hand about pheasant raising might fill a sequel to the book purchased three years ago.

District Granges

Butler To Install

Butler Grange will meet Wednesday evening at the hall when a team from Mahoning County will install new officers. Members are asked to bring a cake for lunch.

HARRY MEAD OF THE Salem-Warren Road holds two ring-necked pheasants raised on his farm. Within the next few days, 500 of his birds will be strutting around and flying in an Indiana game preserve. Many a bird which out-of-town sportsmen will bring home soon will have been from Salem.

4-H Club

Blackburn Hilltoppers

A special organization meeting of the Blackburn Hilltoppers 4-H Club was held Thursday in the home of Roger and Linda Smith of Van Buren Drive. Seventeen members were present.

Plans for meetings in the coming year were discussed, and it was decided to meet the first and third weeks of each month. The first regular meeting will be Tuesday in the home of Roger and Linda Smith.

Plans were also discussed for a hayride at Halloween.

Fairfield Ruritans To Hold Picnic Sunday

Fifty-three members and guests from Rogers and Unity were present at the monthly meeting of the Fairfield Ruritan Club Thursday at Heck's Restaurant in Columbiana.

Mrs. Edith Martzoff, supervisor of retarded children in Columbiana County, gave an illustrated talk on the topic "Problems of Retarded Children."

The annual family picnic for Ruritans will be held Sunday at MillPic Park in New Waterford. Members are asked to bring coverdishes and service. Dinner will be served at 4 p.m.

Elections of officers will be held at the next meeting Oct. 25 at Heck's Restaurant. An award will be presented to the youngest farmer of the year. The program will be in the charge of the agricultural committee with Carl Antram, chairman.

GOP Headquarters Opens In Lisbon

LISBON — Approximately 100 persons attended the opening Friday evening of the Republican headquarters, across from the courthouse.

A special prize was won by Wilford Culler of W. Spruce St. The headquarters will be open from 7 to 10 this evening and 2 to 10 p.m. Saturday while the Lions street fair is in progress.

Ruth Vestfals In College Queen Event

COLUMBIANA — Ruth Vestfals, a junior in medical technology at Youngstown University, is one of six coeds chosen for competition in the queen contest for the university's Homecoming celebration Oct. 20.

Miss Vestfals is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Vestfals of 416 Fairfield Ave. Competition in the school's 22nd annual event will be decided Oct. 9 when the students cast their ballots.

REPAIR POWER LINE

LISBON — Ohio Edison Co. crews made repairs this morning to a power line on the Fairfield Road near Lisbon which burned out during last night's rain.

The severed line fell to the ground at the Al Hartman residence, creating an ark of fire for about 15 minutes before the company shut off the power preparatory to making temporary repairs. Power was off in the area about 40 minutes.

ARSENAL NEWCOMER — Crew of a new U. S. Army M-110 eight-inch howitzer prepare it for firing at Renton, Wash. The hydraulically-operated spade at the rear of the self-propelled vehicle anchors the field artillery piece against the recoil.

3 Youngstown Men Held In Car Thefts

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Three Youngstown men were being held by police here for investigation of auto theft after they were arrested while attempting to sell two high-priced automobiles at an auto auction.

Held were George Nasse, 29; his brother, Peter, 38, and Rudolph Geidans, 28.

Police here said they received a tip Thursday that stolen cars were being run through the weekly auto auction held on the state fairgrounds. Officers spotted George Nasse, owner of the Detroit Auto Sales Co. in Youngstown, in a 1961 model car and began talking to him. Peter drove up in a 1962 model and other officers moved in on him.

When it was determined the cars had been stolen, Geidans walked up and was apprehended. Police said the cars were stolen in the Chicago area.

Officers found $5,000 in $50 bills on Nasse brothers.

After their arrest, police learned the three are wanted by Pennsylvania state police for questioning in connection with the sale of 161 stolen cars in that state.

Commissioners Okay Two Appointments

LISBON — Columbiana County commissioners Thursday approved two appointments to the Retarded Children's Council made by Robert Bycroft, county welfare director.

Robert Starbuck of Salem succeeds John Billiter, formerly of Salem, and Mrs. Edwin Kauffman replaces William Hiscox. The latter two are from Lisbon.

In other business Madison Township trustees were given $300 slat grants.

Cornelius Csepke, chief juvenile officer, was given travel allowances to Westover, Pa., to return a juvenile who had stolen a car from East Palestine and was apprehended in Westover.

The commissioners' next meeting will be Monday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.
